Did you manage to get into the finals, dear David?

You're the worst conductor's nightmare.

It's true, it's true.

And what are we gonna do?

We're gonna win, Ashley and Robert. We're gonna win.

[laugh]

Rachmaninov? Are you sure?

I... kind of. I'm not really sure about anything, Mister Parkes.

Rach three. It's monumental.

It's a mountain. It's the hottest piece you could ever play.

Well, no one has ever been mad enough to attempt the Rach three!

Am I mad enough, Professor, am I?

Think of it as two separate melodies jousting for supremacy. The hand... giant, ten fingers each. Performing's a risk, you know. No safety net. Make no mistake, David, it's dangerous. People get hurt. You have to learn to be able to play it blindfolded. The page!(or God's sake! The notes!)

Sorry, sir. I keep forgetting them. Progressor.

Would it be asking too much to learn them first?

Then forget them.

Precisely!

Just give me the fingers.
